Welcome

It gives me great pleasure to invite you to attend our National Resources Tax Conference to be held at the Westin in Perth on 21-22 November 2024.

This conference has long been recognised as Australia's leading tax conference focused entirely on the energy and resources sectors.

As in previous years, the conference program will provide updates on the tax issues that are front of mind for industry. In particular, a number of sessions will focus on the energy transition. I expect there to be plenty of interesting discussion both at the formal sessions and at the networking events.

The National Resources Tax Conference has always strived to be at the forefront of current and emerging tax issues for the energy and resources sectors and the Committee has worked hard to develop a program that maintains that status. It brings together regulators and leading practitioners for two days to discuss tax and related challenges and the opportunities that these will bring. Speakers have been chosen because they are leading tax experts with the essential blend of knowledge and experience in the practical application of the laws.

The Tax Institute's programs are renowned for delivering leading technical presenters with practical solutions and thoughts on the key tax issues. This year will be no exception as we deliver Australia's preeminent energy and resources tax conference.

As always, in addition to a first-rate technical program, delivered in the heart of Perth's CBD, we will also provide ample networking opportunities, including an exclusive conference networking reception, to renew and make new connections across the energy and resources sectors.

This year's program is no different.

I encourage you to register your attendance on or before Friday 25 October to receive the early bird discount and ensure your place.

Finally, I would like to take the opportunity to thank the organising committee for their work in putting this exceptional program together.

I look forward to seeing you there.

Lauren Jones, CTA, Deloitte

Chair, National Resources Tax Conference Organising Committee
