Session 8: Recent and emerging developments shaping our tax system

Speaker: Julie Abdalla, FTI, The Tax Institute

This session will explore the latest shifts and upcoming trends in tax policy, legislation, and administration – and what they mean for professionals navigating a rapidly evolving system.

Session 9: Commissioner's address

Speaker: Rob Heferen, Commissioner of Taxation, Registrar of the Australian Business Register, Australian Business Registry Services, and Register of Foreign Ownership of Australian Assets

In this annual address, Commissioner Heferen will discuss the current tax landscape and what's on his radar.

Session 12: Inspector-General of Taxation and Taxation Ombudsman update

Speaker: Ruth Owen CBE, Inspector-General of Taxation and Taxation Ombudsman

Session 16: VIP Presentation

Speaker: Danielle Wood, Chair, Productivity Commission

Hear first-hand from a key and influential decision maker.

Session 20: Closing keynote

Relax, sit back and enjoy a plated lunch and some inspiration thoughts from our closing presenter.

Session 4.1: Intergenerational change – Trusts

Speaker: Linda Tapiolas, CTA, Cooper Grace Ward

Trusts play a key role in intergenerational wealth transfer. With the ATO identifying succession planning as one of their targeted focus areas, it's more important than ever that succession planning for trusts is carried out with a clear strategy and understanding of all the issues required to be considered.

This session will include:

- A review of trust deed provisions
- Consider whether business or investment activities will continue or change, and identify any issues to resolve before succession
- Assess opportunities to simplify or tidy up the trust structure
- Factor in practical considerations such as family dynamics and whether successors can work together
- Evaluate key tax implications, required documentation, and whether the trust remains the appropriate structure; and
- Consider vesting the trust as an alternative, with its pros and cons.

Session 5.1: Australian beneficiaries of foreign trusts

Speakers: Frank Hinoporos, CTA, Hall & Wilcox, George Psarrakos, CTA, Mutual Trust

With our ever-expanding family networks, it is not uncommon for clients to be a beneficiary of a Foreign Trust or Foreign Deceased Estate.

This session will look at:

- Recent developments affecting cross-border family groups
- Australian tax implications of strategic, operational and investment decisions
- Transfer of wealth across borders and across family generations
- Documentation and other considerations for families and their associated foreign trust structures; and
- Section 99B and related developments.

Session 6.1: Part IVA and PSI – Anti-avoidance essentials

Speaker: Andrew Henshaw, CTA, Velocity Legal

In 2024 the ATO released its draft ruling (PCG 2024/D2) on the application of Part IVA to alienation or splitting of personal services income arrangement. PCG 2024/D3 represents a risk-based approach to PSI.

When can Part IVA truly apply to PSI arrangements?

This session will consider:

- The old cases on PSI and anti-avoidance
- More recent cases on Part IVA generally, such as Minerva Financial Group Pty Ltd v Commissioner of Taxation [2024] FCAFC] 28; and
- How does the identification of the scheme and the objective factors in section 177D(2) operate in a PSI context.

Session 7.1: What's on the radar for SMEs

Panellists: Neil Brydges, CTA, Sladen Legal, Scott McGill, CTA, Pitcher Partners, Jemma Sanderson, CTA, Cooper Partners Financial Services

Facilitator: Loreena Gillon, CTA, Arithmos Chartered Accountants (WA)

Anticipating and identifying potential problems before they arise is invaluable to SME practices.

Our panel of experienced practitioners will discuss some emerging issues they are coming across in the SME market.

The discussion will consider:

- How to identify the problem
- Where is the mischief; and
- Mitigation strategies.

Session 10.1: Dealing with loans and UPEs in estate planning

Speaker: Caitlin Ashworth, CTA, CCK Lawyers

As Australia continues with the largest generational wealth transfer in history, one category of assets which can sometimes be overlooked are UPEs and beneficiary loans. Failing to adequately deal with UPEs and beneficiary loans within the estate plan can lead to disastrous (unintended) consequences.

- What are the implications of UPEs and loans being “forgotten” during a client’s estate planning
- Identifying outstanding loans and UPEs and the existing arrangements for dealing with these (if any)
- What options are there for dealing with UPEs, loans as part of the estate plan, what tax issues and consequences arise and recommended strategies
- What non-tax issues ought to be considered; and
- Is dealing with UPEs and loans before death a better option?

Session 11.1: My client has tax debts – Is insolvency or bankruptcy their best or only option

Speaker: Megan Bishop, Piper Alderman

As pursuit of tax debts remain high on the ATO’s list of priorities and with the full range of enforcement powers being exercised, understanding clients risks and options when it comes to tax debts is as critical as ever. This session will discuss:

- The ATO’s current attitude and policies around debt recovery
- The tools within the ATO’s armoury and how they are being deployed
- The problems that insolvency/ bankruptcy do resolve – and those which they do not; and
- The options available to taxpayers – and pros and cons of each – including:
 - Payment arrangements
 - Director penalty notices
 - Statutory demands
 - Statements of claim

Session 13.1: Navigating the maze of losses

Speaker: Matthew McKee, FTI, Brown Wright Stein Lawyers

Losses are a complex and often misunderstood area of tax, with different rules and considerations depending on the entity involved. This session will unpack the current rules and recent developments for managing and utilising losses across various structures, including individuals, companies, and partnerships. Attendees will gain a clearer understanding of:

This session will consider:

- The conditions under which losses can be claimed and carried forward
- The impact of non-commercial loss rules for individuals
- The continuity of ownership and same business tests for companies
- How partnership losses are treated and distributed; and
- Practical considerations and common pitfalls to avoid.

Session 14.1: Deep dive on ATO application of 109T

Speaker: John Ioannou, CTA, Macpherson Kelley

While Division 7A has been with us for almost 30 years, with one round of substantive changes in recent history (2009) it continues to catch many practitioners off guard. Run of the mill issues continue unabated, but some of the more embedded complexities are starting to surface in taxpayer reviews and audits. These include:

- Offshore private companies
- Starting points for 109T (actual dividends, protected payments and no distributable surplus companies)
- Who is the ‘reasonable person’
- How do you actually offset in practice; and
- 109V, W and ZC in practice.

SME continued

Session 15.1: How big-end rules are reshaping SME compliance

Speaker: Neil Brydges, CTA, Sladen Legal

Discover how debt deduction creation, thin capitalisation, and transfer pricing rules, once reserved for corporates, now target high net worth private groups. Learn to navigate ATO's Next 5000 and Top 500 reviews, meet public group compliance standards, and shape proactive strategies. Address ATO hot topics, data-driven scrutiny, and resource challenges to stay ahead in this evolving tax landscape. Equip yourself with practical tools to prepare clients for inevitable audits, mitigate penalty risks, and adapt to global tax trends influencing Australia's HNW space.

Session 17.1: CGT roll-overs – Critical knowledge for advisers

Speaker: Todd Want, CTA, William Buck

Gain practical insights into CGT roll-over strategies and compliance essentials.

This session will provide:

- An overview of essential CGT roll-over provisions, covering restructures and scrip-for-scrip transactions
- Insights into compliance nuances, drawing on recent judicial perspectives (AusNet Services Limited v FCT)
- Exploration of ATO's approach to complex roll-over arrangements
- Actionable tips for managing roll-over risks and client scenarios
- A snapshot of emerging roll-over considerations in today's economy; and
- Tools for advisers to navigate CGT roll-over intricacies with confidence.

Session 18.1: Areas of widespread misunderstanding

Speaker: Fiona Dillon, CTA, Australian Taxation Office

Facilitator: Leanne Connor, CTA, WGC Business Advisors

Some tax rules are misunderstood so often, they've become traps waiting to spring. This session cuts through the confusion and challenges the assumptions, zeroing in on the provisions that catch even seasoned professionals off guard.

Session 19.1: Shaping SMSF strategies – Big changes advisers need to know

Speaker: Jemma Sanderson, CTA, Cooper Partners Financial Services

Master the latest game-changers for SMSF advice in this must-know update for accountants and lawyers. We'll dissect three major shifts including:

- Current areas of ATO compliance activity that was also prevalent in the recent Merchant case
- Non-arm's length income (NALI) and expense (NALE) rules hitting related-party dealings; and
- The highly criticised Division 296 tax targeting high-balance funds.

Designed for professionals guiding business owners, this session offers clear insights into navigating these complexities—think adjusting investment structures additional asset acquisition considerations and planning for new tax burdens. Practical examples and strategies will shape cutting-edge advice to keep your clients' SMSFs compliant and tax-efficient in a shifting regulatory world.

Tax Disputes

Session 5.2: Tips and traps when a dispute emerges

Speakers: Kaitilin Lowdon, ATI, Sladen Legal, Gareth Redenbach, Victorian Bar

The ATO's assurance and risk-based reviews or audits are no longer anomalies but an inevitable part of the tax journey. They should be expected. This session will take you through tips and traps of ATO reviews and audits, highlighting the common challenges encountered, and providing practical strategies to navigate the complexities, including:

- Facts and evidence and burden of proof
- Assessments and period of review
- Penalties
- Voluntary disclosures
- Preventing disasters; and
- External review considerations.

Session 6.2: Key considerations in deciding whether to litigate a tax dispute

Speakers: The Hon. Jennifer Davies KC, Victorian Bar, Luke Imbriano, FTI, Corrs Chambers Westgarth

Recent high-profile tax cases, including PepsiCo, Oracle, Bendel, and Ausnet, have been heard before the High Court and Federal Court of Australia, shedding light on significant legal principles and providing valuable lessons for future tax litigation. These cases highlight crucial considerations in determining when a tax dispute should be pursued in court. Correctly addressing these issues is essential under Part IVC of the TAA 1953.

This session will explore:

- What are the critical considerations for both taxpayers and the Commissioner in deciding whether to take a tax dispute to court?
- A practical guide on when and how to litigate a tax dispute, covering the appropriate forum, administrative processes, and key stakeholders involved
- What insights can be drawn from the outcomes of cases such as PepsiCo, Oracle, Bendel, and Ausnet; and
- Once a decision is handed down and what factors should both taxpayers and the ATO consider when deciding whether to appeal?

Next Generation

Session 5.3: When is something a revenue account — Revenue vs capital

Speaker: To be announced

Revenue or capital? It's an age-old question that is raised in client matters across a wide range of industries. This session will discuss how you navigate the capital vs revenue distinction for your clients, amid so much long-standing uncertainty around the topic.

Session 6.3: Interpretation and you

Speaker: Gordon Brysland, Australian Taxation Office

This session is about understanding our interpretation system and how it works. It's not rocket-science nor is it arcane mystery. Our 'modern approach' is an objective, logical and accessible 'system' based on the 'text > context > purpose > text' pathway.

The emphasis in this session will be on key principles which run the system, how to navigate the system with confidence, and how to avoid rookie errors. Things covered will include the importance of context, the obligation to seek coherence, and the centrality of legislative purpose.

This session will provide a template within which to interpret tax laws, discuss some common problems, direct you to sources of assistance, and (if time permits) touch on AI issues.

Indirect Taxes

Session 10.2: Contemporary issues with stamp duty

Speaker: Geoff Mann, CTA, Deloitte

Stamp duty remains a complex and evolving area of state taxes, with recent reforms and ongoing legal challenges continuing to reshape the landscape.

This session will explore where we are now and what's on the horizon, including:

- An overview of the current state of play for stamp duty
- A summary of key legislative changes and policy developments in recent years
- A look at recent constitutional challenges and their implications for state taxes; and
- An exploration of ongoing problem areas, including land tenure, corporate reconstructions, and landholder aggregation and valuation.

Session 11.2: GST – The rough edges

Speakers: Andrew Sommer, CTA, Scott McGill, CTA, Pitcher Partners

GST is largely devoid of legislative reform, stymied by the intergovernmental agreements that allowed it to be created. The ATO is being pressured to generate more revenue from the unreformed tax. What are the rough edges on which the ATO can focus?

- Nexus for apportionment
- Margin scheme and substantiation
- Retirement villages, commercial residential premises and housing development
- The complexities of Division 93 in practice
- Enterprise as a gateway to the GST system; and
- Pushing the edges of Division 165.

This presentation will look at the risk areas for taxpayers with practical advice on how to handle ATO engagement on these issues.

Session 13.2: State taxes in the gig economy

Speaker: Kay Chan, Victorian Bar

Indirect taxes can have a significant impact on the profitability of businesses operating in the gig economy, from payroll tax on inner city Uber dumping deliveries to FBT on travel to remote regions by FIFO / DIDO employees, and those raising a bit of cash through Airbnb.

This session highlights recent developments in administration of these taxes.

Ethics

Session 17.2: Tax, ethics, and family breakdowns – Practical guidance for advisers

Speakers: Thomas Caldow, Grant Thornton, Nick Love, Grant Thornton

This session explores the ethical and tax-related challenges advisers face when clients navigate family breakdowns, offering actionable strategies to uphold professional standards.

This session will discuss:

- Ethical considerations when acting for clients in family disputes, including dual representation risks
- Practical steps for navigating tax obligations during family court proceedings
- Managing conflicts of interest under Tax Practitioners Board (TPB) discretion guidelines
- Role of forensic accounting in family law cases ; and
- Guidance on collaborating with family lawyers and assisting with court orders.

Session 18.2: Navigating ethics in the digital age – AI, data, and professional responsibility

Speaker: Tracey Dunn, EY

This session examines the ethical challenges lawyers and accountants face when integrating AI and digital tools into their practices.

Explore real-world ethical dilemmas in this session tailored for lawyers and accountants. Topics include:

- Data privacy risks with digital platforms and AI tools
- Managing bias in AI-driven decisions for audits and advice
- Ensuring transparency when using automated systems
- Maintaining client confidentiality in cloud-based workflows; and
- Addressing conflicts of interest for various types of partnerships.

This session will feature case studies bringing these issues to life, alongside practical strategies drawn from professional codes and current guidelines.

Hot Topics

Session 10.3: Managing taxpayer debt – An ATO perspective

Speaker: Anna Longley, Australian Taxation Office

The ATO aims to foster payment on time and prevent future debt, engaging early with taxpayers to ensure they understand their payment obligations and supporting those who need it.

During this session, our speaker will address the ATO's approach to payment, including the focus on GST, PAYGW and super guarantee charge debt and taxpayers who deliberately avoid engaging with the ATO.

The session will also cover the support available for those who cannot lodge or pay on time.

Session 11.3: The evolving role of Tax Practitioners – Code, breaches and compliance

Speaker: Arthur Athanasiou, CTA (Life), AGA Legal

This session will examine recent developments that expand the obligations of tax and BAS agents, focusing on updates to the Code of Professional Conduct and new breach reporting duties, alongside emerging compliance requirements such as anti-money laundering.

This session will provide key takeaways for practitioners around what has changed and what they need to know, and using practical examples will explore:

- An overview of changes to the Code and interpretations by the Tax Practitioners Board
- Discussion of contentious Code updates, including false or misleading statements and the duty to keep clients informed
- Understanding breach reporting obligations and how to assess whether a breach is “significant” or causes (or is likely to cause) “material” loss or damage
- Practical guidance on identifying when breach self-reporting is; and
- Evaluating whether documentation from a new client's previous accountant may trigger breach reporting, including unaddressed Division 7A or Section 100A issues and unjustified inflated tax claims.

Session 13.3: Cases update

Speaker: Andrew Spierings, ATI, Victorian Bar

This session will discuss the key implications flowing from recent judgments handed down by the relevant Courts of Australia.

Session 17.3: Legal Professional Privilege – New frontiers and emerging issues

Speaker: Amber Agustin, FTI, Gadens

This session will deal with new and emerging challenges for tax lawyers advising on legal professional privilege in the context of tax cases. In particular, the session will consider:

- From Technology Assisted Review to AI – challenges for LPP from new and emerging technologies
- Voluntary production and waiver – approaches and consequences
- Reflections on the Brazil direction; and
- The joint Attorney-General/Treasury Department “Review of the Use of Legal Professional Privilege in Commonwealth Investigations”.

Session 18.3: Taxes, tariffs and Trump

Speakers: Rashtin Fazal, Grant Thornton, Richard Nutt, Grant Thornton

The new United States Trump Administration has recently announced a wave of new tariffs and tax reform measures.

This session will cover:

- Current state of play on US tariffs and the impact to Australian supply chains and any response.
- Other announced US corporate income tax reforms; and
- Implications of the US announcements in relation to BEPS Pillar 2 for Australia.

Corporate

Session 4.4: Pillar 2 in a shifting global landscape

Speakers: Catherine Dean, CTA, BDO

Nearly 12 months into Pillar 2's implementation, multinationals are navigating unprecedented complexity, while geopolitical shifts are testing the durability of the global tax consensus. This session examines where things stand – and where they may be heading.

- Practical implementation challenges with Pillar 2 – data gaps, system readiness, and interaction with existing tax rules
- Australia's first year under Pillar 2: key lessons, common pain points, and emerging areas of ATO focus
- The impact of a potential Trump administration on Pillar 1 and 2 – disruption or derailment?
- What a US withdrawal from Pillar 2 could mean for global coherence and unilateral responses; and
- Approaching the one-year mark – what compliance looks like now versus what was expected.

Session 5.4: Diverted Profits Tax in practice

Speakers: Eugene Wheelahan KC, FTI, Victorian Bar, Angela Wood, CTA, Clayton Utz

This session will explore critical questions around the taxation of cross-border payments and beneficial ownership. Focusing on the DPT provisions introduced under Part IVA, this session will examine:

- The legal interpretation of key DPT concepts
- The interaction between DPT and Australia's general anti-avoidance framework – Part IVA; and
- Procedural and strategic considerations for multinational groups under DPT scrutiny.

Session 6.4: Intangibles in transition

Speakers: Chris Ferguson, Deloitte, Rachel Sciascia, Deloitte

The focus on intangibles continues, with significant developments in case law and ATO guidance products.

In this session we will discuss these developments and provide insights into the practical application and the impacts and ramifications for all organisations.

Session 7.4: What's on the ATO radar for Corporates

Speaker: Jonathan Tang, Australian Taxation Office

The ATO's approach to corporate taxation continues to be a key focus area.

During this session, the ATO will provide an update on its approach to corporate taxpayers including its Top 100 and Top 1000 programs, its broader compliance program for the large market population and the key issues that the ATO is prioritising.

Session 10.4: Thin capitalisation – From legislation to application

Speaker: Kai-Chen Lamb, King & Wood Mallesons

The new thin capitalisation rules are now in force with organisations needing to consider and apply the rules. The ATO is also releasing guidance on key matters relevant to the new rules. In this session, we will provide insights into the new rules and practical issues which are emerging for many organisations in the context of property and infrastructure investments in Australia, focusing on:

- The 'associate entity' concept, including when entities may be regarded as 'associate entities' for the purposes of these rules, and how these rules differ depending on what area of these rules the distinction is being applied in the context of; and
- Applying the 'third party debt test' in practice, and the challenges in relying on the conduit financing rule, taking into account the terms of the legislation and the ATO guidance available.

Session 11.4: Impacts and practical issues arising from the debt deduction creation rules

Speakers: James Alsop, KPMG, Justin Orders, KPMG

With effect from 1 July 2024, the new 'thin cap' regime is complemented by the debt deduction creation rules (DDCR) which target debt deductions relating to certain related party arrangements. The DDCR is complex with broad application. It contains a specific anti-avoidance rule. For many taxpayers, there is a need to revisit historic arrangements and trace funds. Evidence is required to prove that the DDCR does not apply.

This session will walk through the scope of the DDCR, its interaction with other measures and the Commissioner's administrative approach.

Session 13.4: Shaping the future of global tax – Heads of Tax insights

Panellists: Bill Barton, FTI, BP, Shashi Sivayoganathan, FTI, Transurban, Jessica Williams, Sportsbet

Facilitator: Dioni Perera, FTI, EY

This session brings together top tax executives to share their firsthand experiences and strategic insights on the challenges and opportunities shaping the future of global taxation.

Our expert panel will explore:

- The evolving role of the Head of Tax in today's complex regulatory and business landscape
- Key trends in international tax, including BEPS 2.0, digital tax reform, and the increasing focus on environmental, social, and governance (ESG) factors
- Strategies for managing tax risk and compliance in an era of rapid regulatory change and heightened scrutiny
- How global tax teams are adapting to remote work, automation, and digitalisation in tax processes; and
- Future-proofing tax strategy: Aligning with corporate objectives while navigating new global tax frameworks.

Session 14.4: Hybrids in focus

Speaker: Jayde Thompson, Alvarez & Marsal

Hybrids remain a key area of scrutiny for tax authorities, especially for large multinationals. This session will unpack the ATO's documentation expectations, common pitfalls with hybrids, and how these issues intersect with the evolving Pillar 2 framework.

This session will look at:

- ATO's increasing demands on robust hybrid documentation and disclosure, particularly for large multinationals
- Common challenges and compliance risks arising from hybrid mismatch arrangements
- The interplay between hybrid mismatches and Pillar 2's global minimum tax rules; and
- Practical strategies for managing hybrid risks and aligning with evolving international standards.

Session 15.4: Future proofing your transfer pricing

Speaker: Lorena Sosa, ATI, PwC Australia

This session will explore recent developments, highlight key cases, and consider the broader role of transfer pricing in corporate tax strategy, including:

- Recent and anticipated ATO guidance on transfer pricing exemptions, including potential updates leading into September
- The integration of transfer pricing considerations into broader tax governance frameworks
- Public Country-by-Country (CbC) reporting and its implications for transparency and compliance
- Key cases on the horizon; and
- The pervasive role of transfer pricing in corporate tax and capital management decisions, and reflections on where the discussion is heading.

Corporate continued

Session 17.4: Australia's economic outlook in a shifting global landscape

Speaker: Johnathan McMenamin, Barrenjoey

Global markets are reacting to shifts in US economic and trade policy, Australia is not immune to this elevated uncertainty. For tax professionals, the intersection of geopolitics, fiscal pressure, and protectionist trade measures could see policy makers use the tax system as a way of supporting local economies.

This session provides a timely economic and policy update tailored to the tax profession, with a spotlight on:

- US trade and tariff policy, and its implications for multinational supply chains
- Australian macroeconomic trends – interest rates, inflation, and the importance of global growth – and their influence on fiscal policy and tax policy
- How policy monetary and fiscal policy, including Australia's tax system, is currently driving the economic growth; and
- How countries may respond fiscally to renewed trade tensions.

Session 18.4: The mutual agreement procedure (MAP) and transfer pricing

Speaker: Michael Jenkins, CTA, EY

This session will cover the practical operation of the MAP process with a focus on transfer pricing. The MAP Article in Australia's double tax treaties provides the basis for government-to-government dispute prevention and dispute resolution framework that largely sits outside jurisdictional laws. Specific matters covered will include:

- The intended operation of the MAP Article
- The impact of the OECD's BEPS Project and the Multilateral Instrument (MLI)
- MAP and the courts (including the Oracle case); and
- The ATO's approach to MAP and APAs.

Session 19.4: M&A tax update

Speaker: Stephen Chen, CTA, MinterEllison, Adrian Varrasso, ATI, MinterEllison

This session explores the evolving landscape for foreign investment into Australia, covering tax, legal, and regulatory considerations with a focus on recent developments impacting renewable energy, land use, and private capital flows and will discuss:

- Inbound investment trends, including growth in renewables, land development, hydrogen, and private equity
- CGT implications for foreign investors, with a focus on TARP rules, recent guidance, and the impact of cases such as Newmont, YTL, and CONEX
- Distinction between revenue and capital treatment and why it matters for structuring and exit planning
- Practical challenges around foreign resident CGT withholding and key compliance considerations
- FIRB approval thresholds and sector-specific considerations, including sensitive land and infrastructure projects

- State-based foreign resident surcharge duty issues, recent litigation (especially in NSW), and implications for transaction planning; and
- Strategic considerations for combining tax, regulatory, and commercial drivers in cross-border investments into Australian assets.

Venue

📍 Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre

The Tax Summit is returning to the impressive MCEC, a Melbourne icon and purpose-built, multi-award winning convention centre.

The city is alive with energy and innovation around every corner. At the heart of it all is the Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre (MCEC) – Melbourne's home of bold and world-class events. As the venue for this year's biggest tax event, MCEC offers a first-class experience in a prime riverside location. With Melbourne's buzzing restaurants, galleries, and nightlife just steps away, your Summit experience can seamlessly extend into the city itself.

Located in the vibrant South Wharf precinct, Australia's newest oldest place, it's your starting point to access nearby Southbank, the Yarra River, Melbourne's infamous laneways and first-class restaurants.

Recommendations

Within 5 minutes of MCEC

There's so much to see and do while in Melbourne.

Whether you're attending with your team, or find yourself searching for a dinner spot with a new connection you've made at the Summit, here are our top recommendations close to MCEC and beyond.

Stroll the South Wharf Promenade

South Wharf Promenade is Melbourne's hottest "go-to" location for amazing food, sensational shopping, bars, walks and wonderful views of Melbourne. Take a leisurely stroll along the Promenade, enjoy the views, dine at one of the award-winning restaurants, cafés or bars or shop in DFO.

Award winning cuisine

Eat and drink your way through Melbourne. Stake out the city to find everything from cosy coffee dens, rooftop bars and modern cuisine. Chat with locals over craft beers and a steak at an inner-city pub, settle in for an indulgent eight-course degustation menu, or choose a direction and hit the road for a weekend of indulgence.

Immerse yourself at LUME Melbourne

Ranking among the most-loved and most-visited attractions in Australia's capital of arts and culture, THE LUME Melbourne immerses visitors into the world's finest art at a truly jaw-dropping scale. An expansive 3,000 square metre, four-storey high space, THE LUME Melbourne is the first permanent space in the Southern Hemisphere of its kind.
