

Next Generation Leadership Masterclass

 21-22 April 2026

 CPD 4-8

Practical skills. Real workplace impact.

Today's emerging professionals need more than technical skill, they need the confidence, adaptability and professional presence to contribute meaningfully from day one.

The Next Generation Leadership Masterclass empowers emerging tax professionals to move beyond technical competence and develop the confidence, adaptability and workplace skills needed to add real value early in their careers.

Whether you work in public practice, corporate tax, legal advisory, government, or the not-for-profit sector, this program equips participants with the skills and confidence to thrive in their specific environment.

Welcome

The Next Generation Leadership Masterclass is a new online development series designed to support emerging tax professionals and the employers who invest in them.

This program builds upon the core capabilities that shape high performing professionals, including communication, adaptive thinking, professional visibility and early leadership behaviours.

Participants will take away practical skills they can apply immediately in client work, team environments and stakeholder conversations.

Participants can choose between the four-session core series, or the eight-session expanded program, depending on the level of flexibility and development needs of your team. Both options are delivered live and online to make participation easy from anywhere.

Developed for both individuals and employers, this program supports organisations looking to invest in their people and build strong, future-ready teams.

Our speakers

Kate Boorer
Quantum Impact
Group

Kate is one of Australia's leading experts on career, confidence and personal brand. As a former finance professional, Kate built her career on hard work, mentorship, and technical expertise. However, despite her success, she struggled with self-doubt, particularly around public speaking and networking. This tension led her to explore personal and professional development, ultimately inspiring her book Core Confidence. Today, Kate uses her finance background and years of experience as a coach, facilitator, and mentor to help leaders build resilience, remain calm under pressure, and navigate ambiguity. With a focus on strategic thinking, she empowers professionals to embrace challenges, develop a solutions-focused mindset, and position themselves for success in complex environments. Through her work, Kate helps professionals thrive by turning self-doubt into confidence and clarity.

Tess Everingham
Next Coaching

Tess is an organisational and career coach, consultant and facilitator who specialises in helping people successfully take their next step. Highly effective and professional, she can be direct, challenging and thought provoking and builds productive relationships that encourage and motivate her clients – whatever their age, role, situation or stage of life – to realise their individual aspirations and achieve their goals. Before establishing Next, her career included roles at senior management level in finance and professional services, marketing, events, and research – both in Australia and internationally. Her experiences in work and life mean she has a pragmatic and insightful understanding of commercial and personal realities that gives resonance and impact to her coaching and facilitation work.

Tony Frost
Frost Leadership

Tony Frost in his first, 34-year career was one of Australia's leading corporate tax advisers. He was, and still is, a lawyer and a Chartered Accountant. His clients included BHP Billiton, Macquarie Bank, Westpac Banking Corporation and the Commonwealth Bank of Australia. Before joining Greenwoods in 2003, he had been a tax partner at PwC for seven years. Prior to that, Tony spent five years working in-house at Westpac Banking Corporation. Throughout his tax career, Tony was a regular speaker at TTI events. Tony finished his tax career in 2018, after being Managing Partner, for seven years, of tax advisory firm Greenwoods & Herbert Smith Freehills, one of Australia's most lauded professional service firms. Since 2019, and after completing a Master of Science in Coaching Psychology degree at the University of Sydney, Tony has been having a second career as an executive coach, mentor, leadership consultant, facilitator and trainer. He holds a number of non-executive company directorships, and is the non-executive Chairman of the Leadenhall Valuation Services group. Tony is a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors and now teaches the AICD's prestigious Company Directors' Course. Tony is also the author of The Professional: A Playbook to Unleash Your Potential and Futureproof Your Success. Tony has been a proud member of The Tax Institute for close to 40 years.

Karen Tisdell
LinkedIn Marketing &
Strategy Consultant

Karen Tisdell is a LinkedIn strategist, profile writer and trainer who helps professionals build trust, visibility and opportunity- online and offline. With a background in recruitment and 15+ years in personal branding, she's known for practical, time-smart advice that strengthens real relationships (not performative networking). Karen has been on LinkedIn since 2005 and writing profiles since 2009, and works with leaders and technical experts to sharpen positioning, deepen stakeholder engagement, and handle high-stakes conversations with confidence.

Core program

Day 1

Tuesday, 21 April 2026

Time *AEST

Session

11:00am

– 12:00pm

Session 1: Communicating with clarity and influence

Speaker: Tony Frost, Principal, Frost Leadership

How to communicate complex ideas clearly and confidently

Tax professionals work with complex information every day, but influence comes from how clearly you can communicate it. This session builds the skills to translate technical insights into messages people understand and act on. Learn how to structure advice, frame recommendations confidently, manage challenging conversations, and build presence with stakeholders at all levels.

12:00pm

– 1:00pm

Session 2: Adaptive thinking in a changing landscape

Speaker: Kate Boorer, Quantum Impact Group

Building a mindset that thrives in ambiguity

With constant regulatory, client, and market change, technical knowledge alone isn't enough. This session focuses on building resilience, agility, and strategic thinking. Participants will explore frameworks for decision-making in ambiguity, unpack real-world scenarios, and learn how to remain calm, solutions-focused, and effective under pressure.

Time *AEST

Session

2:00pm
– 3:00pm

Session 3: Building relationships and professional visibility

Speaker: Karen Tisdell, Karen Tisdell Consulting

Developing meaningful networks inside and outside your organisation

Career progression increasingly relies on who knows your work, not just how well you do it. This session explores the practical side of networking – nurturing genuine connections online (including LinkedIn) and offline. From building client trust and deepening stakeholder engagement to strengthening internal visibility. Participants will also craft a simple and authentic 'professional brand'.

3:00pm
– 4:00pm

Session 4: Leadership foundations for the next generation

Speaker: Tess Everingham, Next Coaching

Develop early leadership habits – Taking ownership, leading conversations, stepping up in projects

Leadership begins long before title changes. This thought-provoking and practical session supports emerging professionals to step more confidently into project ownership, initiative-taking behaviour and everyday leadership. Participants will reflect on how leadership shows up in their current role and explore the importance of conversations, relationships and stakeholder awareness in building influence and trust. The session also highlights the behaviours senior leaders look for in future managers. Participants will consider what leadership looks like before formal authority, strengthen their awareness of everyday leadership conversations including influencing, clarifying expectations and managing up, and develop greater insight into how to work effectively with different people. The session concludes with participants identifying one practical focus to support greater ownership, accountability and impact in their work.

Extended program

Day 2

Wednesday, 22 April 2026

Time *AEST

Session

11:00am
– 12:00pm

Session 5: Time, priority and workflow mastery

Speaker: Tony Frost, Principal, Frost Leadership

Move from overwhelm to control with practical systems for smarter working

Move beyond 'busy' and into intentional productivity. This session explores modern workflow tools and habits, effective prioritisation, and strategies to manage workload pressure without sacrificing quality or wellbeing.

12:00pm
– 1:00pm

Session 6: Emotional intelligence in professional practice

Speaker: Kate Boorer, Quantum Impact Group

Building self-awareness, adapting to diverse styles, and leading with empathy

Emotional intelligence (EQ) is a cornerstone of effective leadership and professional growth. In this session, we'll focus on enhancing your ability to understand and manage your own emotions, adapt to various personalities, and lead with empathy in both client-facing and internal roles.

– 3:00pm

Session 7: Stakeholder management and client confidence

Speaker: Karen Tisdell, Karen Tisdell Consulting

Managing expectations, communicating proactively, and building trust in every interaction

Understand stakeholder motivations, manage expectations proactively, and communicate in ways that build trust. Includes navigating demanding clients, maintaining boundaries, and influencing outcomes with professionalism.

3:00pm

– 4:00pm

Session 8: Designing your career in a changing landscape

Speaker: Tess Everingham, Next Coaching

Building self-awareness, direction and leadership readiness

In today's changing career landscape, greater self-direction, adaptability and visibility are increasingly important. This engaging and interactive session supports participants to take greater ownership of their career direction and development. Participants will explore what "career design" really means, identify their strengths and emerging leadership capabilities, and reflect on the skills and mindsets needed for future tax leaders. Participants will leave with a clear focus and a practical next step to support their ongoing growth.
